IFRS® Standards—Required 1 January 2021 and

IFRS® Standards—Issued 1 January 2021
IFRS Foundation set to introduce substantial update to its website

Earlier this year, we announced various changes to our online offering. This update will be taking place over the weekend of 10-11 April 2021. It comes as a result of discussions with our stakeholders and is aimed at enhancing your digital experience. The updated website will bring together content from its three existing sites—ifrsc.org, archive.ifrs.org and eifrs.org—into a single, unified user experience. While the look of the updated website will remain familiar, it will also offer enhanced functionality that includes improved search, advanced customisation and a new IFRS Standards Navigator.

Your subscription won’t change—you’ll be able to access the updated website, including the new IFRS Standards Navigator, with your existing username and password as soon as it goes live. Which features of the navigator you’ll be able to access will depend on your subscription. Use our product comparison table below to find out which features are specifically available on your subscription.

Please note if you are an existing subscriber to eIFRS Professional, it is now called IFRS Digital. If you are an existing subscriber to eIFRS Comprehensive, it is now called IFRS Digital & Print.
